

FRDS

The FRDS JIP has been running since April 2006 and over the course of the programme the members have made both financial and non-financial contributions to ensure the success of the JIP.

The past financial contribution of members is addressed through the payment of the late joining fees outlined in the JIP proposal. However, it is also necessary to address the non-financial contribution made by the existing members, who have shared their expertise, knowledge and results to help advance understanding of the group as a whole.

Therefore, BMT MPL ask all prospective new members to the JIP to indicate what “added value” they will bring to the project beyond their membership fee. This could be in the form of information they would be willing to share with the JIP that would otherwise be unavailable, experience/expertise they would bring to discussions and any other benefits that the JIP would experience through their involvement.
